

OFFICIAL GUIDE TO SUMMIT COUNTY PARADE OF HOMES | OUR LARGEST ISSUE OF THE YEAR

MOUNTAIN LIVING®

— 25 YEARS —

Five Stunning Mountain Homes

RUSTIC REVIVAL

RANCH MOGUL LIVING
GORGEOUS BATHS WITH A VIEW
FRINGE BENEFITS

NURTURING NATURE

PHOTOS: AUDREY HALL

WITH MOUNTAIN BREEZES WAVING IN THROUGH THE WINDOW and a roomy Kallista tub for soaking, a master bathroom in a Jackson Hole home tempts its owners to linger when bathing. It's just one of many spots in the home that connects residents to nature. Peter Zimmerman Architects of Berwyn, Pennsylvania, was tasked with designing a home that felt like an original homesteader's cabin, so it was built with hand-hewn timbers, antique oak flooring and wormy chestnut cabinetry crafted by Yellowstone Traditions of Bozeman, Montana. In the master bathroom, they were able to create the space as a bay so it "almost creeps into the outdoors," says architect Sean Narcum. To keep the bathroom from being dark, they chose Calacatta Caldia marble for the tub decking and countertops, and Volo fabric from Yoma Textiles for curtains. "We wanted it to feel rustic but still light and fresh," says interior designer William Peace.

ARCHITECT: PETER ZIMMERMAN ARCHITECTS, pzarchitects.com

INTERIOR DESIGN: PEACE DESIGN, peacedesign.com

CONSTRUCTION: YELLOWSTONE TRADITIONS, yellowstonetraditions.com >>